In May of 1962, Dr. Rodger Decker, Dr. Catharine Neylans, Dr. Carl Bennett, Mrs. Margaret Bennett, Dr. William Morgan, and Mrs. Jackie Singleton watched the first senior class graduate from St. Andrews. Today, 25 years later, they say farewell to the Class of 1987. This yearbook is dedicated to those administrators who have served the community since St. Andrews first opened its doors. This annual is also dedicated to the twenty-fifth graduating class, for their spirit and determination in their strive for excellence.

In the Old Testament Book of Joshua, the Israelites received a message which is timely for each of us at St. Andrews today. It read "And I have given you a land for which you did not labor and cities which you did not build, and you dwell in them." So it is with us. We have dwelled on this campus, learned in this College, which was made available to us by the work of others.

Each time I stroll through the halls and along the pathways of our campus, I am reminded of both the heritage and the possibilities of St. Andrews. Certain objects and favored places evoke memories and stir fond hopes. The bell tower is one such facet. The ringing of the beautiful bells is a reminder of the passage of time and its unchanging challenges. Each bell's particular tone resonates with an alluring individuality and the carillon's melody, echoing over the lake, beckons us to strive for harmony and peace — person with person, nation with nation, people with nature.

Even as we step on triggered door mats and amble up wheelie ramps, we rarely pause to ponder St. Andrews' dedication to accessibility. Yet, what a symbol we have in these facilities! St. Andrews has strived to ensure that not only physical structures but also ideas are accessible to all. Our community has endeavored to provide each member an open pathway to ideas, foreign lands, and far-reaching dreams. And, all these notions spring from our heritage as a college of the church.

Though we seldom see the mosaic in the Liberal Arts building as anything more than a colorful blur in passing, our pace is sometimes slow enough for us to notice that it displays important milestones of our heritage. The events and ideals behind these judiciously arranged fragments of tile tell the story of our Judeo-Christian religious heritage and of our Western civilization. They also contain the foundation for our future as a people, for they blend faith and knowledge, obligation and opportunity. That mosaic can be a great inspiration to all who contemplate it.

The "graffiti wall" is one element of our campus which few of us ever take for granted. The wall reminds us of controversy, humor, social gatherings, relationships, and politics. The thoughts and events of one season are constantly displaced by the new ideas and happenings of another. Yet, the wall itself remains, both as a symbol of another era and as a forum for current, open expression.

Finally, the entire St. Andrews campus, indeed the College itself, is a testimony to the value both of firm adherence to principle and of judicious cooperation. St. Andrews owes its existence to the merging of Flora Macdonald College and Presbyterian Junior College, each of which grew out of dedication to the principle that the Presbyterian Church must be about the business of education. The union of these two colleges required compromise and cooperation, for it brought together persons from different communities who were asked to set forth in new directions.

Those of you who are members of the Class of 1927 are about to move in new directions as you leave this campus which you have called "home" for several years. No longer will you be hurrying by the bell tower, the wheelie ramps, the LA mosaic or the wall, or moving about the other parts of this beautiful campus. But the memories, the friendships and the benefits of your time here will remain.

When you reflect on St. Andrews, the people and the place, I hope that you will remember the spirit and the ideals upon which your college was founded. Remember also that "you have lived in cities which you did not build and enjoyed a place for which you did not labor." So, while remembering the heritage and those gifts which were prepared for you by others, I urge you to keep in mind also the future possibilities for the College. Always seek to build this special place for the next generation of students. Ours is a dynamic heritage. Remember to pass it on.

Best wishes to you and thanks!

Special Events

Luau

This year Albemarle Dorm once again sponsored Luau, an exciting trip to a tropical paradise. While some enjoyed the native music DJ'd by John Sealey, others were feasting upon the roast pig and other succulent fruits and luscious nectars. Several contests took place during the evening to provide everyone with a break from the tribal dance ritual. The limbo, hula and costume contests were the highlight of the evening.

Toga

Toga is the annual party given by the Winston-Salem dorm in which students had "Sheets loads of fun" sporting their Roman attire and partaking in the festivity and foods of the Gods. The party was held at Farrago and was attended by many students on campus. Due to the extreme temperature in Farrago, many party goers congregated outside to refresh themselves and to show off their "Animal House" attire. "Do as the Romans do" was heard throughout the night.

Japanese Business Week

The relationship of Japan and the United States is one of the most important for both countries in the latter part of the Twentieth Century. Economic competition and cooperation will play a vital role in the futures of both nations. They are intricately related. It is especially necessary for Americans to understand the importance of this relationship. In the South, where business competition is the greatest, this knowledge is vital. For anyone to comprehend the success of Japanese business and management practices, it is also important to appreciate Japanese culture. In an effort to foster friendship and to familiarize Americans with the achievements and visions of the Japanese, St. Andrews Presbyterian College, with its long history of association with Japan was proud to sponsor this business and arts festival.

The Cat Came Back

This past fall CUB invited John Paul Walters to come and sing at St. Andrews. Having played here for the past three years, John Paul Walters has become one of the St. Andrews favorite traditions. He entertained the crowd by playing various selections of pop, folk, rock, and contemporary Christian music. A unique feature John Paul possessed is his ability to make the members of the audience his friends, rather than just spectators. We had fun with the songs we knew and could join along in singing, but it was his original material that made the performance extra special. The lyrics in some of the songs he has written could touch a person's very soul. He has a true talent of bringing joy and warmth to a performance.

Myla Garren and Kristin Hague
— "The Best Dressed"

God's gift to women.

Once again, the guys of Meck hosted the second annual reunion of improperly and distastefully dressed St. Androids. This reunion is known far and wide as the Meck Back-Yard Tacky Tourist Jamboree. This party had been instigated by Corneilus Bushoven (Meck's R.D.) who in the past had been investigated by the house Sub-Committee regarding unfashionable affairs. He is presently listed at the top of "The Red Menace". The partiers danced to the tunes of Thyss Band and participated in an outrageous fashion show. The winner of which won a highly covented prize, dinner. Not only did Tacky students come, but also members of the Laurinburg-St. Andrews community. Students, professors, and even the police were in attendence.

Dressed To Impress

Early in November, the women of Wilmington hosted "An Evening Under the Stars" followed by the "Dress to Impress" dance: Many guests had a good time dancing to the music of John Sealey and crew. Others enjoyed the dinner and refreshments while watching other guests have fun. The party was a real success.

Halloween

November 1st was the date of Granville's Annual Halloween Party. Despite the showers, a large group gathered to dance to a typical Granville band, Iko. Even some parents stayed following Parents' Day to attend. Costumes ranged from Flintstone characters to hillbillies, monsters, scary creatures, and the traditional goons of the holiday. As always, suites were decorated to create the Haunted House effect. Suite one, decorated as an execution scene, took the prize for best decorated suite.

How does one determine the arrival of spring at St. Andrews? Look for bagpiping, Scotsmen, outrageous rafts floating on lake Ansley C. Moore, grown men riding tricycles, and a revival of the Granville Beach and Yacht Club. To the casual observer, all of this activity makes no sense. But, to a seasoned partier this means the ultimate spring party! Granville and Wilmington's Extravaganza has begun. According to a recent survey, 4 out of 5 partiers recommend "Ganza" as the spring party to attend. For 1987, Ganza promises to be better than ever.

In addition to providing refreshments, the club assisted in the framing and hanging of Anne Woodson's exhibit, "Tornadoes," under the Monday Night in the Arts program.

Members also continued to renovate the Sculpture Garden, and in the Spring they sponsored the Springfest, a huge arts event joining the talent and resources of our college with those of the community.

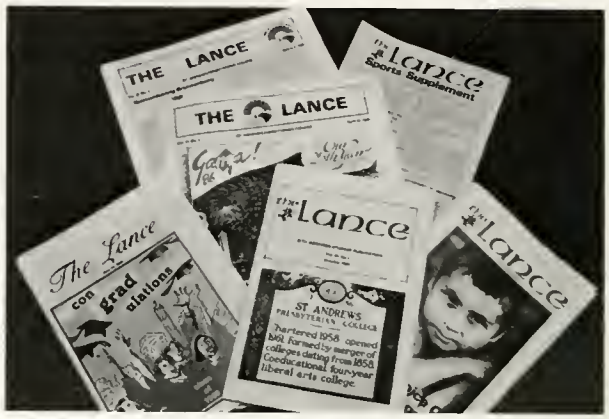
The Lance



For twenty-five years, The Lance has reflected signs of the times on our campus — rebellion, protest, apathy and change.

In the spring of 1986, The Lance emerged from a cocoon of virtual non-existence and instability. The "new" Lance is now printed on white bond paper, color has been added and a new logo has been designed. However, one of the nicest and newest features is the paper's magazine-type cover.

During the 86-87 year The Lance has thrived under the direction of an enthusiastic staff who are all volunteers. Only through the energy and creativeness of such a terrific staff was it possible to add the Arts & Entertainment and Creative Writing sections and to re-establish strong Sports and Editorial sections. It is the hope of the entire staff that the excellent literary tradition of St. Andrews will continue via THE LANCE.

Finishing with a record of 3-14-1, the Men's Soccer team showed an improvement over last year's winless season. Besides winning three games, the Knights had impressive matches with powerhouse teams like ECU and Christopher Newport College. The Lady Knights came into the 1986 season as the defending Dixie Conference champions, hoping to repeat. However, they lost to Methodist, the eventual '86 Champion, in the DIAC tournament. Still, the Coots managed to finish the season with a respectable 21-13 record and place two players, Kristi Kluegel and Lori Hughes, on the All Conference team. The team had several players returning, including Kristi Kluegel, and looks to be tough in the future.

Kristi Kluegel spikes one through an opponent's block. Kristi led the team in both kills and blocks during the season.

Team unity was an important part of the lady Knights success. Here, they share a "good-luck" cake from Lori Hughes' mom.

Dawn Langley bumps the ball while Lori Hughes waits to set up.

A New Beginning

The 1986-87 season was a new beginning for the St. Andrews's men's team. With new coach Mark Simons at the helm, the Knights went on to build a strong team. Coach Simons started by recruiting his brother David and intermural star Joe Owens. David helped lead the Knights to the finals in the Frank Shannon Invitational Tournament in Delaware, Ohio. Randy Baker, Vernon Jacobs, and Anthony Tookes gave strong performances that helped lead the Knights to a 7-15 record overall, with a 4-7 finish in the Dixie Conference.

A quick pass caught the opposing defense off guard, setting up this easy Knight basket by Byron Russell.

Tough Season

The Lady Knights had a disappointing season. The team went 4-16 for the year with a 2-8 record in the Dixie Conference. Many of their losses were close heartbreakers, but the season did have its highlights. Malinda Edmonds hit a buzzer shot against Va. Wesleyan to turn a heart-breaking loss into a clutch win. Patty Romano, Ann Thomas, and KeWanda Walters consistently turned in good performances for the Lady Knights.

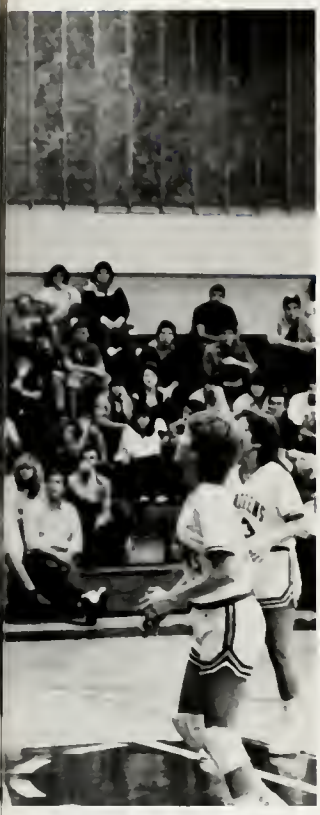
After taking the drive, Rinni Dumire pulls up and takes a shot.



After working past a defender, Ericka Woods takes the shot.

Aiming High

When Gordy Scoles took over the St. Andrews track team, he set about building a strong program. A former NCAA Division I coach, Scoles sent his team to major competitions, like the Wolfpack Invitational, and the Davidson Relays, as well as meets within the Dixie Conference. The team, although small, had some very talented athletes. Ken Fellenstein, John Thomas, and English recruit, Cajetan Chukwulozie helped lead the men, while Lisa Chassy and Charlie McCoy helped the girls.

Intramural Football

Students from the dorms quickly filled out the roster sheets for intramural football. The teams, mostly groups of friends from the same dorm, fought it out through the season to get to the title game. The championship pitted the Meck 69'ers against the CPI. Mecklenburg's team emerged victorious, earning the intramural bragging rights for the year.

The Journey

I have to climb the mountain
but first I must conquer the hill
this is the inevitable conquest
in which I must fulfill.

The journey will be hard
as all things are
and it will take a very long time, but
The answers are ahead
And wisdom the reward
so now I'll begin my climb

Each step I take I learn something new
These are our steps of life, for
The mountain is high and the journey is slow
but our journey is yet to arrive.

ATTRACTION

The leaf falls to the ground
the colors are bright and wild.
The wind picks it up and throws
it into the air.
Colorfully, it drifts from here to there.
No aim, no goals, it just drifts
Care-free.
It catches my attention, —
This fluttering leaf —
But before I can touch or understand the complexity
of how it came to be . . .
The wind, it blows, carrying it away from me. So care-free.
The attraction, brief but felt —
it leaves me empty —
lost within a whirl wind
of after thoughts.

Libbey-Owens-Ford means glass.

In 1930, the firms founded by industrial pioneers Edward Drummond Libbey, Michael J. Owens and Edward Ford joined forces in Toledo to become America's strongest, most innovative glassmaking organization.

And through the years, Libbey-Owens-Ford set the standards against which the industry was judged.

Today, our affiliation with the internationally-based Pilkington Group, our commitment to R&D and the active involvement of each member of the LOF team are just a few of the ways we're making certain our biggest contributions to the glass industry are still to come.

So that in the future, as in the past, you can count on Libbey-Owens-Ford for glass solutions that make life better, safer and more enjoyable.

Thanks to everyone who helped sell ads for the 1986-87 Lamp and Shield, I appreciate your help and cooperation. I would like to thank the advertising staff for all the work they did (you know how much time you put in it).

I wish lots of luck to next year's advertising editor in getting businesses to cooperate! GOOD LUCK!

These lines are dedicated to all the friends I've made at St. Andrews. If I've learned anything, it is that you can't go through life without friends. Each of you have filled a special and different place in my heart. Some of you have been siblings, parents, and even counselors. Each of you know who you are! I'll take all the wonderful memories with me to UGA in hopes that you will remember me while you're still at St. Andrews. Special thanks goes to Debbie Doo, Randa, Marcia, Mr. & Mrs. "P", and "Mama Elliott!" I LOVE YOU! — Lynn
